

ABOUT ME

My name is Jed Brundidge and I'm a graduate student at the University of St. Thomas. I moved to St. Paul in September of 2013, from Nekoosa, WI, to join the software engineering program. I'm a hard working individual with a passion for technology, excited over the opportunity to put the skills iv'e learned to work. I've completed two years of the program and am in my final year. Balancing a full time job while going to school full time has been a difficult task. Although difficult, I've embraced the challenge and have flourished through the chaos.
